

My Bones

We touched down at 9am
We were walking on air
Though the flight was overnight
We hit London town without a care
With a longing in our hearts
And a song in our stride
Smooth no bits and rumble strips
Lost on a road that was open wide
The plan was in our heads
And all the world's time
We even had a destination
But how the time it would fly
And so would we again
Three times that day
Just trying to get home
In a roundabout way

Under the sunshine in a castle made of stone
Our vows were made
After it's over then we'll begin again
Tear the whole world apart throw the whole world away

We were showered on in Bath
Bored by the Bard
Bronte's town took twice the time
To find our way around it wasn't hard
Through the winding cobblestone's
Durham great mistake I had
One more whisky one more beer and I stayed up to late.
Melbourne St. a rented flat
Kept us all alone
A castle garden and a date
Was all we had from going home
Then I saw the sun come up
I was all alone but I
Knew that I would never be
I could feel you right down to my bones

Under the sunshine in a castle made of stone
Our vows were made
After it's over then we'll begin again

Tear the whole world apart throw the whole world away

Away, away, never coming back again we'll be

Out of sight, out of our minds, climbing the highest mountains that we can climb

And all of the time I can feel through to my bones
